

Welcome to the 7/15/10 Weekly Edition of the McCormick Message

Dear Friends:

In less than two months you will have the opportunity to place a constitutional, conservative and honest candidate on the ballot for the general election in the 8th Congressional District. The time is now to stand up and show your support. Stand up to business as usual politics. Stand up to career politicians and to those who believe that credibility can be bought and borrowed. Stand up to individuals who are not willing to be the voice of those who elected them. Stand with me as I stand up for America.

Your continued activism and support is greatly appreciated and vital to our campaign. As my constituents and as my neighbors I value your input and encourage you to contact our campaign office with any questions or discussion items. Our campaign staff is eager to join in discussion with you and learn about the ways in which we can better serve you. I look forward to seeing you along the campaign trail!

All My Best,

Terri McCormick

Terri McCormick's Recent Endorsements

Terri McCormick Endorsed by Change the Congress in 2010

Representation focused on the needs of voters - not themselves, not lobbyists, not special interests, not a political party

APPLETON, Wisconsin - Change the Congress in 2010, a Federal PAC, has endorsed Terri McCormick in the Republican primary for the 8th Congressional District.

"Our mission at Change the Congress in 2010 is to change the Congress; our house has become riddled with individuals that are serving themselves rather than us, or even their country," explained Catherine Welborn, executive director for Change the Congress in 2010.

"Terri McCormick has a history of achievements in leadership, public policy innovation, and public service. She also has an actual track record of delivering on her promises. Terri believes that 'credibility cannot be borrowed nor can it be bought.' Rather, it is earned with the trust built upon the foundations of integrity and honesty. She has made a difference in the lives of hundreds of thousands of individuals living in the state of Wisconsin," continued Welborn.

Change the Congress in 2010 wants: "An honest representative. A trustworthy person. A person with real experience in life. A person who lives and works and volunteers in their community - their community in Wisconsin's Eighth Congressional District. A person who cares about people. A person who has paid taxes. A person who has balanced a budget. A person who has created jobs - real jobs. A person who will put their God and their country above themselves. A person who will not sell out to the lobbyists. Terri McCormick is that person," stated Welborn.

The principles and values that McCormick represents resonate with those of Change the Congress in 2010. In regards to health care, Terri McCormick opposes the public option or any other Washington power grab to take over the health care system. She believes that government-manipulated monopolies of insurance, health care and other medical services must be replaced by market driven providers who compete on an equal playing field. Consumers and health care providers can only succeed when our system allows the patient/doctor choices to flourish.

McCormick understands the importance of creating new private sector jobs. She understands that it is government waste, fraud, and mismanagement that have produced the severe threats facing our country: financial insolvency, energy dependency, and foreign entanglements. The country cannot continue to borrow 55 cents of every dollar spent by the federal government. "These are principles that work and have stood the test of time - not only that, these are principles that most Americans support! Since these principles are also those embraced by Change the Congress in 2010, we are proud to endorse Terri McCormick for the United States Congress," concluded Welborn.

"Thank you Change the Congress in 2010 for your commitment to bringing change to Washington and for your faith in me and in our country," stated Terri McCormick.

Terri McCormick Endorsed by Wisconsin Right to Life

APPLETON, Wisconsin - Wisconsin Right to Life has endorsed Terri McCormick, Candidate for Congress in Wisconsin's Eighth District.

"This endorsement is an honor," stated McCormick. "The Wisconsin Right to Life organization is based on integrity, strength of purpose and respect and it is a true privilege to have their support."

During McCormick's time in the state legislature and as a citizen leader she has supported Right to Life causes on both the local and national levels and will continue to support pro-life policies.
